

Dr Sergio (Yani) García, PhD

Current position: Acting Director Dairy Research Foundation and FutureDairy Project Leader, Faculty of Veterinary Science, University of Sydney.

Qualifications: BAgSc and MSc in ruminant nutrition (University of Mar del Plata, Argentina); PhD in Animal Science (Massey University, New Zealand); Post Doc in Dairy Science (University of Sydney)

Career History in brief:

Private consultant in dairy and beef pasture-based systems in Argentina (1989-1997)
Research Fellow at INTA (Nat'l Institute of Agricultural Research, Argentina) (1994-1997)
PhD studies and research work as staff of the Agricultural Services department, Massey University, NZ (1997-2000)
Associate Professor of Dairy Science and Co-director of postgraduate program in Dairy Science – University of Buenos Aires (2001- current)
FutureDairy Science Leader (2004-2008)
FutureDairy Project Leader (current)
Dairy Production and Technology Unit of Study coordinator. University of Sydney
Acting Director of the Dairy Research Foundation and Leader of the Dairy Science Group, Faculty of Veterinary Science, University of Sydney

Research Interests:

Whole farm system studies of pasture-based dairy systems. Grazing management and nutrition, feeding and supplementation of grazing ruminants. Forage production and utilisation. Dynamic simulation modelling.